I realize that we today here were gathered potentially far ahead, or in (a quite) short notice.

I have felt many some feelings for Ariana for a number of year's, and it is with devotion and departure that I state, so as any man would feel for a woman, this is uniquely true with Ariana, such that I would freely grant of Arina's devoted terms unto these collected people.

By in graces of what is accomplished of selflessness, it is of providence that I can claim that Ariana has relented of my fortitude and courage at an approach, and found of life what is within her heart, mind, and myself of soundness of these, for adequacy of the principle that sharing the equated and differences among a people; for of what they would grieve of and grant, is a right of modern common passage.

Life, as I know is more truthful when love is given, or shared than to be granted or taken, thus she is very much entitled to her womanhood and individuality among a people, and is of this the due inheritance in wed name and family, for in each (alike) loss of providence of what is found being common, is indeed as she would grant of myself as per her consent and liberty of way to become her entitled Husband, her, my Wife.

Thus it is that as I love this woman, she is acquittable of divorce and intention by of what any majority would adorn, and possesses the freedom to her life, welfare, and child, for what I have found in that of a heart that appreciates what is yielded to* upon avowal of the path we share together and to which represents the relinquishment of sorrow by many and the reclaiming of certain happiness.
